1. The first part of the text discusses the importance of the "National Day" (National Day) and the role of the "National Day" in the development of the country. It mentions that the "National Day" is a day of national unity and pride, and it is a day when the people of the country come together to celebrate their achievements and their shared values.

So what are you waiting for?

great time to be Stan Lee, founder of that phenomenon we like to call "Marvel."

First, our Fearless Leader, Stan Lee, who has been appearing in your favorite comic book pages. It's playing at a multiplex near you. See it.

Second, on Hal

like Spider-Man and The Incredible Hulk, hosted by the Smiley Face Guy.

(A&E) Network cable channel will broadcast the show by Stan Lee.

one hour program featuring a behind-the-scenes look at The Man, more biographical goodies than you can shake a comic at, and interviews with Marvelites like John Romita, John Buscema, and Terry Stewart, and entertainers like James and Gene Simmons. The show is scheduled to air on December 25-29 (coincidentally Stan's birthday week)—check your local listings for the exact dates.

the show is a must-see for all Marvel fans. It's a celebration of the man who created the Marvel Universe.
